Considering the transformation of the National Commission for Backward Classes from a statutory body to a constitutional body, discuss its role.

A: (A) The decentralization of power was done by 73rd and 74th constitutional amendment Act 1993. This created the local self-governing bodies at village level - as Panchayati Raj institutions and at urban level - as Municipal bodies. This decentralization changed the governance level at grassroot levels in India -

1. Transfer of authority and power to local bureaucrats
2. Creation of village panchayat at three levels targeting each population - village, block, district
3. It ensured justifiability between local public and government in decision making
4. Solution of local problems by municipalities
5. Political decentralization by panchayat and municipal elections
6. Creation of local representatives and public participation

Challenges to decentralization:

1. Ignorant population
2. Lack of women participation
3. Criminalization of politics
4. Poverty
5. Vote bank politics
6. Use of monetary flow during elections
7. Lack of transparency at village level

Solutions:

1. Right to Information Act implementation
2. Use of digital seva
3. Use of postal complaints
4. Citizen charter, public service guarantee

Conclusions: Thus, the decentralization process is ongoing in our modern democracy. It empowered our citizens and created social growth.

Q 3.2: Discussing the role and challenges of media in democracy. Evaluate it as the fourth pillar of democracy.

OR

Amendments in the Right to Information Act will have a serious impact on the autonomy and independence of the Information Commission. Discuss.

A: (A) Media is a means of communication by printing newspapers, radio, T.V., social media etc. It's a platform that represents the information available to public using right to freedom of speech and expression, using media under Article 19(1)(a).

Role of media:

1. It represent the government's policies to public and helps in better implementation
2. It acts as ethical guide to enlighten public about working of government
3. It creates relationship between public and government's political leader
4. It guides voting behaviour
5. It helps public to judge their representative and feels about the wrong doing, corruption, international relations, policies etc.

Challenges of media:

- Yellow journalism
1. Involvement of politics in media channel
  2. Misinformation, scandalizing
  3. Interference of media in person's privacy
  4. Use of sensationalism in danger if they reveal corrupt practices of politics
  5. Role of TRP, faster and fake news competition
  6. Lack of sensitivity in representing cruel, violent information

Thus media is the fourth pillar of democracy - due to its (existing) role in:

- Making public aware
- Providing information
- Informed, empowered citizen
- Choosing right representative
- Increase points in this context

Thus, the democratic nation like India needs media to create balance and construction between public and government, like it played during Covid-19 time.

OR

Present an article on the relevance of thoughts of Mahatma Gandhi's in present day politics.

A: Mahatma Gandhi is often known as the "father of our nation" as he turned the nation struggle into mass struggle through his constructive program.

His ideologies are very much relevant in present day politics:

1. (Non violence) - It's important for preventing wars like Russia-Ukraine; India- Pakistan over Kashmir, that jolts the world's economy
2. (Sarvodaya) - The equivalent distribution of resources and targeting BPL population by present government through - Awas yojana etc.
3. (Cleanliness) - Through Swachh Bharat, and also the world's facing climate change. Global warming all needs Gandhiji's cleanliness ideology.
4. Democratic decentralisation - It's done by creation of DRI and municipalities.
5. Economic development - As per Gandhiji's there is need of small scale unit development which is still needed by our political leaders.

6. There should be involvement of people at each level for political decentralisation which is required today.
7. At world politics, Gandhian philosophy of peace and coordination is still required and used.
8. The policy implementation of government can be done better if the political campaign focus upon gandhian program of local village development, empowerment of women.
9. Gandhiji was against the use of reservation and today it is used in politics as vote bank.

Thus, it can be said that his ideologies helped not only India but the whole world to create a non-violent state.

Q 3.4: Discuss in detail the features, role and challenges of public administration in developed and developing societies.

OR

Throw light on the development of public administration as a subject.

A: - As per scholar Luther Gullick and Lyndell Urwick the public administration acts differently in developed and developing nation but its the serving of government bureaucrats for public.

In developed societies. Its features are -

1. Its goal oriented and market based
2. It's a facilitation rather than foes.
3. Its far more modern, techno- oriented.
4. It works for the competition, economic market balance.

Role :-

1. It focuses upon global challenges - tourism, migration and climate change
2. provide high level of infrastructure - power, transportation , techno - oriented skilled man power.
3. It focuses upon market government.

Challenges:

1. It doesn't depend on strict rules
2. Socio- economic development is not priority.
3. More corruption, global tension.

Its features in developing society:-

1. It's a doer and provides facilities of government.
2. It client oriented - focus on socio- economic development, removal of poverty.
3. It's change oriented and works on decentralised manner.

Role:-

1. To provide and implement government services.
2. Empower citizens, tackle social evils.
3. Working in hierarchial manner to provide benefits- housing, water, scholarships etc

Challenges:

1. Corruption, rigid bureaucratic model.
2. Lack of citizen interaction.
3. Lack of technical skill

Thus, both societies have their own level of administration, but the work of public administration is same to provide quoted services.

Q 3.5: Explain in detail the principles of public administration.

Or

Discuss in detail the development, principles and efforts of New Public Management.

A: According to George Gant, the new public management is the synthesis of public and private administration and it's more market oriented goal oriented. It looks the administration in managerial point of view.

Development of New public management:-

1. It developed when the various countries were suffering and lacking in the working of their traditional public administration.
2. It was given by various scholars in their books and also suggested by united nations to work upon such method. which is - market and synthesized model.

Principles and efforts of new public management:

1. It's market oriented and works in competitive manner to provide satisfactory citizen services.
2. It provides flexible working conditions.
3. The organisational structure is simplified, hierarchy is flattened.
4. It provides user pay base services of high quality.
5. It takes what and when from public administration and How from private.
6. It works upon goal and works for socio economic development.
7. It's more dynamic, competitive and innovative.
8. It more technically advanced.
9. It solves the public problems immediately.

Thus new public management is the need of current bureaucratic model.
